the same places on the same day. This is the usual, almost universal western style of conducting a political campaign, and it has been justly held that the candidate who refused to speak in that way had no better reason than cowardice for declining the challenge. Yet we well remember that in 1854 Jupon Trunsull made a similar proposition to Mr. Doculas in writing, at Mt. Vernon, and that the latter promised to answer it the following day from an adjoining town. Instead of keeping his promise he ran off to another part of the State, and has not said Yes or Noto Judge Trunsull's challenge to this day. Will he accept a like proposition from the friends of Mr. Lincoln?

The Kansus Election Certificates at Last.

Mr. John C. (Candlebox) Calhorn has at last thought best to Issue certificates to members of the Kansus Legitlature, who were elected under the Lecompton Constitution in October, 1857. That election, and its swint-weight the same calculations of the single exchanness the side con wind the single exchanness and of the single exchanness that is winted the single exchanness that we dive young and good tooking. The beginning of the introduction of prayer into the public boarding houses at the Springs ling were patent to the whole country, but the Democratic majority in Congress refused to look at them. Calhoun coolly said that by and by he would issue certificates to the successful candidater—when it suited his convenience, or rather that of the Administration. For a long time he was very certain that the Democrats had a majority of the Legislature. Then, as evidences of the swindle began to State men were elected, and very soon he

Had the loss of the Surveyor-Generalship anything to do with it? Perhaps Mr. Calboun will collighten the public on this point in the disclosures he has threatened to make. Let us have all the facts, Mr. Calboun!

We are gratified to announce that Mayor Hains has vefood the late ordinance estab lishing a horse railroad in State street. I then said, addressing myself to Capt. Ken-I then said, addressing myself to Capt. Kennedy, that I was sorry to see these men acting like a set of ruffians, and turned to leave, when I heard a vulgar fellow, a policeman, named Robert Alexander, exclaiming, "That G-d d-d son of a —." Now, the most dignified course, perhaps, would have been not to have taken any notice of so vile a speech; but, feeling indignant, I turned and asked the fellow whether he meant to apply that language to me.
Several words ensued, and was again beset by several men, one of them raising his club to strike. Just then Capt. Kennedy once more interfered, and prevented further difficulty. In this connection I must also not forget to menthis connection I must also not forget to men-tion that many of the policemen present did their beat to allay the excitement. I make this statement in justice to myself. From it, it will plainly appear that the remarks in the Times concerning me in connection with the arrest of Mr. Tracy, are entirely without foundation.

The prompting motive for this fine dis-play of editorial pyrotechnics, is a desire to castigate Young America for the prompt manner in which he checked Grandfather

Bull in his efforts to revive the old exploded custom of searching American vessels under the piea of philanthropic zeal for the suppression of the slave-trade. The "leading journal" waxes oracular, and thus proceeds to lecture the scape-grace:

He will not be asked about his friends, his bills, his amassements, his occurrent in the right of sarch. This is a great emancipations. Young America will now take or lend his flag all over the world. From zone to zone, and pole to pole, the stripes and stars will proclaim perfect freedom to every trade or profession that he may choose to assume them. Slavers, pirates, or any worse trade, if it can be discovered, may now carry "the grand principies of American independence, conquering and to conquer, all over the world." Morever we go, across the vast breadth of the Atlantic, that glorious banner will proclaim a sacred immunity.

The sarcasm of this paragraph is unfortunately too well grounded in soher fact to be entirely amusing to Young America. But he has the consolation of thinking that he is a "chip of the old block."—that his lavich dis to any precisely in what state party lines were left by the Kansas discussion. The sarrosam of this paragraph is unfortunately too well grounded in sober fact to be entirely amusing to Young America. But he has the consolation of thinking that he is a "chip of the old block,"—that his lavic his play of the national banner, his boundless ambition, his tendency to grasp at everything within, and often beyond his reach, have their parallels in the example of his now gouty sire across the water. Glass houses are greatly in fashion all over the world, and Old Eogland can as little afford to indulge in the amnesment of throwing stones as Young America.

They do the same things now, and a great deal more besides. They publish able papers on matters which concern our everyday business and welfare, and lie level to the apprehension of minds of the most ordinary culture. Things are looked at from the stand point of utility rather than that of curious speculation and literary divertisement. A similar change has come ever, them to that which, Mr. Mallering and offering peculiar advantages to the rather than that of curious speculation and literary divertisement. Aristoile, as really as Bacco, used the indicative method—but the latter turned investigator into new channels—directed it to new objects—diverted it from the speculative to the useful. Whether an angel can pass from one point to another without passing over the intervening space is doubtless a very interest; to most people or so readily settli d, as how high water can be raised in a common pump. The leading English Reviews often publish articles on many practical subjects, on the applications of science to the useful arts, and commercial and social statistics. Taey perceive and yield to the tendencies of the times to ask of every thing "Cui bons ?" Nor is it any coming down for these lords of literature to busy themselves with subjects which used to seem of little importance. The same principle has application to matters of very diverse magnitude and apparent significance. The force that wheels matters of very diverse magnitude and apparent significance. The force that wheels the planets in their courses, causes the apple to full from the tree. The same rule of right which gives confidence and trust in the pettiest transactions of trade, gives stability to great empires. Equally profound principles of mechanics may enter into the construction of a steam engine and a watch. This business may be greatly increased This business may be greatly increased by making an unbroken line of communication between this city and the section of country known as Central Iowa, which lies directly west from this point, and by the Galena Railroad at a distance of but one bundred and thirty-six miles. The river makes its greatest eastward bend at Fulton, and incloses a peninsula about one hundred. Fulton, and incloses a peninsula about one hundred miles by fifty, which comprises one of the most fertile portions of the State. The proposed lines extending west-from this region pass through the populous and wealthy Cedar Valley country, long known for its advantages in an agricultural point of view. A proposed line, which which is contingent upon the building of a bridge at Fulton, would extend an unbroken connection with this city to Northera lowa. One or more of these reads would connect with a fine which

Why should we spend so much money in journeying hundreds of miles East for pleasure, when we have natural scenery equally as beautiful at our own doors, and which can be enjoyed with so much less fatigue and cost? An anonymous document, professing to emanate from the friends of Gerrit Smith, desiring his nomination as Governor of the State of New York, has made its appearance. It calls

Upon a mature survey of the causes which have produced the present Indian onthreak in Oregon, and the means of the Indians for carrying on hostilities against the whites, no general war need be apprehended. Gen. Scott has ordered 500 troops to proceed without delay to the Pacific department. They will be amply sufficient to repair any losses that may have been suffered, and to inflict a just punishment upon the offending tribes. Authority has beside been sent to Gen. Clarke to accept the services of as many volunteers as may lakes containing boric acid, for which Tuscany is celebrated, has just died at Florence. But the most important step has been taken by the Department of the Interior, which has dispatched instructions to its areats of the Indian Bureau, and to Gov. McMullen, as Superintendent, to see every exertion to assure the Indians that perfect justice shall be alone them an Indiniment of treaty stipulations. They are instructed to space no pains to convince the tribes in revolt, that they will be fully paid for their lands, protected on their reservations, and supplied with all the goods promised them. Little doubt exists among the well-informed here, that when these representations are properly made, the difficulties will be settled without further blood-hed.

again here. Two thousand young argoniare to be cut loose from their moorings, left to sail for themselves over untried as with but that lamp to guide them which is at to shine only upon the rearward path. an influx of youth and muscle, even into seething turbulent, American life, is not in ceptible. There are two hundred and twenty the state of the state colleges or are ealled such, and their ye graduates number as high as two and so times three hundred: imes three hundred: It is easy to find fault with the low leve collegiate instruction in this country, by far as it goes, and in the general, has practical, valuable, and diffused through markable large number of persons. Most the benefit derived from it is not limited to class rooms. Colleges help boys to men, by throwing thein among dozens of others as clever as they, and putting them in relation with the educated classes of the country, and in possession at least of the keys of knowledge. The renewal of old and pleasant associtions is the chief charm which draws together from all parts of ahe country, at this season, men af such different croeds, and representing such varied situations and spheres in life. The orations and poems and speeches with which the Commencement entertainment is usually garnished are often very poor stuff, but not always. American literature would miss its Phi Beta Kappa poems, and politicial ethical and historical literature could not well spare many of its colligiate anniversary orations.

This is the season, too, for sowing the annual crop of doctorates. In the morning many persons will arise men, and in the evening will go to bed Dectors of Divinity corporates of Civil and Canen Law. There are some case when the conferring of the degree of Doctor of Divinity does great good. It sometimes puts a sudden end to the complaints of a too ault-fading congregation. The story is told of a clergyman in a New Eagland villiage, who had been in the same pastorate for many yeare, and who found his influence at length sensibly divinishing. His people desired a charge—they washed a smarter man. Some of his friends, however, signed a petition and carried it to a New England college, and finally the doctorate was conferred on the aged pastor. The decree worked like a charm. His remaining years were passed in peace among his people, and they followed him lovingly to his burial.

The degree also has a good indinance upon the person who receives it. The story is told of a trustee of one of our colleges, who

The degree also bas a good infinance upon the person who receives it. The story is told of a trustee of one of our colleges, who had for a number of times vacated his seat when the question annually come u: who shall receive honory titles? The trustees needed his advice. The coincidence was at last no iced. They made him a D. D., and he has been faithful to his post ever since.

The fact is, titles are growing rusty in public esteem, and some colleges have bad the good seuse to drop them altogether; or to confer them very rarely. There are many ministers, also, who do not wish their divinity doctored, and some among the laity who, like President Kirkland, of Harvard University, think the Lt. D. is generally bestowed for one of three causes: first, as an indication that its recipients have succeeded in keeping cider barrels sweet the longest; second be-

PRESS AND TRIBUNE. TRI-WEEKLY SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 24, 1858. Alliances, Holy and Unholy. We understand by an "unboly alliance," then Mr. Douglas speaks of it, a union of the Republican party with certain "unscrupulous office-holders," to put him on the shelf—that

We are glad to see that the reforms con of some great and majestic principle in con-stitutional law. According to his rendering of the issues before the people of Illinois, there is a prodigious difference between his principles and Mr. Buchanan's principles, and a league has been instituted between certain a league has been instituted between certain parties to crush out his principles in favor of the President's. Personally he would not assume to be that Olympian obaracter who ought to hold office by a prescriptive right, but viewed through the crystalline principles which be embodies he claims the likeness of one of the early Christians whom a perverse generation seek to destroy. According to our rendering of those issues Mr. Douglas and the unscruptions office-hold-meaning and the unscruptions of the same position, the adoption of any specific measures look.

Furthermore, we understand (and so does he), that there is no alliance in the case except such an one as the Douglas party and the Buchanan party have themselves creeted and thrown into the field of Illinois politics. This matter we dispose of by anying that Mr. Douglas makes his appeal to the people ackly from what he calls Treason to the Democratic party. That is, he draws a harrowing picture of the discords inside of his own organization, shows, or pretends to show that the "usages" of the Democratic party are all in his favor, and then eails on the people, who are supposed to care nothing for any party, to protect one fraction of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic party is a protection of the Democratic party against the raveges of another protection of the Democratic par

And what are the principles which make Mr. Douglas a more desirable man for the United States Senate than Breese, or Purple, or Dougherty, or Dr. Leib? We will take his own speeches since the opening of the campaign to find out the discrepancy which makes him a better man than they. It is certainly not the Lecompton issue, for Mr. Douglas asys in his speech on the 15th or Douglas asys in his speech or Douglas asys in his speech on the 15th or Douglas asys in h not Mr. Douglas congratulate himself that the President coincided with him in that great territorial principle? Did not the issue between them turn upon the question whether Lecompton was or was not the act and deed of the people of Kanasa—both holding that it should be so before it became their fundamental law! In this issue we held then and we hold now that the President was wrong as to his facts; but where, we inquire again, is the difference principle? Mr. Douglas said he "cared not whether slavery were voted down or voted up." Mr. Buchanan said precisely the same thing. As to the mental reservations of either we have no satisfactory clue, Mr. Buchanan's record on such matters is certainly not more pro-slavery than Mr. Douglas.

The War in India—A Gloomy Prospect.

Late letters received in England from India, dated at Bombay and in the camp of Sir Colin. Campbell in May and June, show that the Sepoy rebellion is far from being subdued. The British troops suffered to a very fatal extent from the heat of the weather, whilst the insurgents were united, well organized and daring although always beaten in the open field, they continued a most desperate guerilla war. Sir Colin. Campbell had $8,000 men under his command, of which an average of the procure aick or wounded. He would soon want thirty thousand fresh troops. The old General bore the brunt of the march and weather, and fought well, but had some very narrow escapes from dash in battle. A London correspondent of the Boston Traveller, who is or professes to be an Englishman, gives a very gloomy account of the Boston Traveller, who is or professes to be an Englishman, gives a very gloomy account of the British prospects in India, and also of the British prospects in India, and also of the British prospects in India, and also of the conduct of British troops in that country. He says:

India still continues disturbed, and, between drinking, fever, and cholera, our army melts away. Our bravest have fallen and still one hundred victories have gained us no sure foothold over the align race. The Sepoy enemy nowhere presents a firm front, but harsasses us by a guerilla warfare, and by an obstimate resists ance in stragging fortresses. Our own conduct is not defensable. The permitted conduct of or army would stamp us with eternal diagrace if the defensable. Again the rivers flood the fiats, the windows of heaven are opened, and the forty days of rain are ever repeating. The tarmers are in trouble, and sorrowing over hopes decidedly dampened. The rank growth of this wet season, with the in tensely hot sun, have done mischief for our far, mers. The wheat, barley and oats have been sady abused of late, and half a crop is as much as we dare expect. The luxuriant, tender growth of straw was scorebed by the hot flashings of the sun, and the fields of grain lately of so vigorous growth, and darkly green in color, are now wilted and red with rust. A fine field of wheat wear here, where a few days since there, were but small.
